Bakken-Johnson

Word has reached Brainerd of the marriage at Waltham, Mass., of Sphus Carl Bakken, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Bakken of this city, to Miss Pauline Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Johnson of Waltham. The ceremony was performed Thursday evening, August 1, at the home of the bride's parents, 24 Lawrence street, Waltham. The Rev. Edgar R. Walker, pastor of the Church of Our Saviour, Universalist, officiated, using the double ring service, and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Cut flowers were effectively used in decorating the home where the ceremony was performed under an arch of roses. The bride, attended by her cousin, little Miss Marion Johnson, 12 flower girl, was becomingly attired in a simple frock of peach crepe. She carried butterfly roses. Miss Marion Johnson was charming in a dainty frock of green crepe de chene and wore rosettes of peach and green ribbon on her hair. The wedding march was played by Edwin B. Pratt, Jr., of Waltham.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony, the couple assisted in receiving by their mothers, Mrs. Johnson wearing orchid flowered voile and Mrs. Bakken a frock of figured silk.

OBSERVES 46th YEAR IN NEWSPAPER WORK

F. W. Wieland, Publisher of Brainerd Dispatch, is Host at Dinner Saturday

EMPLOYEES AND WIVES GUESTS

Editor and Publisher Has Been Faithful Nearly Half Century in Service to Public

All staff employees of the Brainerd Daily Dispatch including their wives celebrated with F. W. Wieland Saturday evening, the occasion marking the veteran newspaper publisher's 46th anniversary in the line of newspaper endeavor.

The celebration in the form of a dinner party took place at Mr. and Mrs. Wieland's home, 407 North 4th street.

In that gathering were employees of Mr. Wieland for many years, men who worked with him in the up-building of the newspaper and the community.

Mr. Wieland's 46th anniversary in a service dedicated to the interests of the public comes as a glorious achievement. The obstacles he has faced throughout the years have been many, and the good deeds and acts he has accomplished for the public have also been many.

As a newspaper man he has witnessed the growth and activity of this city, through experienced eyes, more, possibly, than any other resident.

Mr. Wieland came to Brainerd in 1882 from Mount Gilead, Ohio. For nine years previously newspapers in this city the Daily Tribune and the Daily News had found the going difficult. The Dispatch was organized as a weekly on December 21, 1881 by Frank Meist and Joe Riggs, the latter now being an employee of the Minneapolis Journal. The weekly edition of the Dispatch was then published in the Sleeper block on Front street. During the next two years the Dispatch changed hands three times, C. B. Sleeper, Fred Puhler and A. E. Penell being respective owners.

Mr. Wieland purchased the Dispatch from Mrs. Penell and published his first edition on August 3, 1883. At that time he transferred a half interest to N. H. Ingersoll, now deceased. Mrs. Ingersoll continues as a part owner of the paper. The Dispatch was printed solely as a weekly from the years 1883 to 1901 when Mr. Wieland extended his interests to the daily newspaper field, still continuing the weekly.

As a publisher and citizen Mr. Wieland is held with the highest of respect in this city and throughout the northwest.

The Dispatch was published in the Sleeper block until June, 1907 when fire destroyed the office, nothing being saved except the files and a little office equipment. Despite the fire which destroyed the office and equipment not one issue was missed. The paper appeared the next evening published from the old building on the present site. The building was entirely remodelled in the year 1927.

During the early years of the newspaper Mr. Wieland and Mr. Ingersoll did all the writing, soliciting as well as all the mechanical work, the paper being set by hand and required long hours before going to press. In the year 1909 the Dispatch installed its first linotype, the first in this section of the country.

Today the Dispatch ranks among the first ten newspapers in the state with all the latest equipment necessary for the publishing of a daily paper. The organization has a personnel of 15 employees. Its building is one of the finest in structure of any newspaper plant in the northwest.

Mr. Wieland has always insisted in his staff writers fairness to the public in presenting the news. United Press pony service was established 12 years ago. Four years ago telegraph-printers replaced the pony service system. As a member of the United Press the Dispatch is protected on all world wide news. All these improvements were made through the foresight and desire for advancement on the part of Mr. Wieland. Recently Mr. Wieland purchased new type in consideration of the readers.

Mr. Wieland's kindness and fair dealing with his employees is reflected in the tenure of service on the part of his employees. There are men in his service who have been employed by the newspaper for a quarter of a century while the youngest member of the staff has been with the paper three and a half years.

Many newsboys of the Dispatch have risen to high ranks in their professions during later life. They earned their first money selling papers or delivering papers on routes.

The policy of Mr. Wieland has been to make the Dispatch a paper for the home to be read by every member of the family, to print all news that is fit to print.

Employees of the Dispatch and guests at the dinner party were: Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hoffbauer, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Swanson, Albert E. Broman, Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Thoe, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Allison, Mr. and Mrs. William Demmers, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thompson, Miss Florence Minette, Ralph Lindberg, Clarence Dahlen, Miss Myrtle Munson, Ralph R. Cole, Mrs. H. C. Ingersoll, Mrs. E. W. Kailey, mother of Mrs. Wieland, Mrs. Minnie De Shon, Mrs. Mary McMullin.

No Military Lodges

The grand secretary of the Masonic temple, Washington, D. C., says that American Masonry does not at the present time follow the policy of the Grand lodge of England in permitting organized military lodges to be incorporated within the regiments or in the naval service. During the Civil war one or two lodges were organized within the army following the troops as is the English custom but these passed out of existence and there are not at the present time any left.

A wonderful exhibit of fruits, farm crops, flowers, and vegetables will be a feature. Twelve hundred boys and girls will demonstrate club work for state championships.

An outstanding feature of the fair will be its wonderful entertainment program. Twenty-five of the world's leading speedway and dirt-track drivers will stage a three-days' auto race bill. ## Can You Pronounce It?

Perhaps the most unpopular ship name, at least among signalmen and underwriters who have to write it down in a hurry, is surely the Ven. ayagawpakialetery. Happily there is only one ship of this name—a barque registered at Jaffna, a port in Ceylon.

Columbus' Brave Deed

Pass Closely Guarded

Restrictions as to passage through the Khyber pass apply both to men and women. The pass is open only on certain days of the week and at certain designated hours. It is the main strategic point of entry into India from Afghanistan and is, therefore, carefully guarded.

A Proved Friend

Between the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and the people of the Middle West, a friendship exists that has grown with the years—that has stood the test of time.

In the early days this Company was a friend in need to the pioneer. Its dark green tank wagons drawn by horses delivered kerosene faithfully to all parts of a newly developed land.

In the early days of motoring this Company blazed the trail for the motorist, establishing Service Stations that it might deliver gasoline to him wherever needed along his route.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has grown up with the Middle West and today it is an institution in which the people take a personal pride.

This is significant, for in any friendship existing between the public and a business organization a definite faithfulness of performance is implied.

The public is not quick to bestow its approval on a great corporation. A single purchase of a single product, if it prove unworthy, will lose the customer's good will for the organization producing it.

To win the approval of the public, a corporation must prove itself worthy by unwavering faithfulness of performance, by unvarying dependability. The friendship of the public for a business organization must be earned and re-earned.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has earned and re-earned at every contact the good will of its customers.

Over a long period of years, by millions of satisfactory sales and services, it has been building its reputation for unflinching dependability. Everywhere in ten states today it is known and depended upon as an old and proved friend.

"There's a Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Service Station," the motorist, traveling an unknown road exclaims with pleased recognition. He may be hundreds of miles from home in a strange territory, but if it's a Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Service Station, it is a familiar friend.

Here he can buy the same dependable petroleum products for his car that he buys at home.

Dependable fuels. Red Crown Gasoline for twenty years the favorite of motorists in the Middle West. Red Crown Ethyl, the new fuel for brilliant high compression performance, and Solita, a light gasoline that gives both power and spectacular response.

Dependable motor oils in grades to meet the requirements of every make of car. Iso-Via, the sensational new-type motor oil that will not thin out. Polarine, best of the old-type motor oils, economical and dependable always.

Here the motorist will receive the same courteous and skilled attention that he has come to expect at a Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Service Station. Here he will find the same friendly spirit of helpfulness—the spirit of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as definitely recognizable as its products.

New Door needed on the Back Porch

The Back Door looks a little neglected, doesn't it? For one thing, the screening has rusted and fallen away in spots. Doesn't keep the flies out. And the delivery boys and the ice man have soiled the woodwork. It does look messy. It isn't much of a job to put in new netting and to paint the main door and the frame of the other. Let's get busy. What do you say?

Another Objection Heard

ANOTHER objection to the State Office Building site on Washash street, St. Paul, has been voiced by the St. Cloud Journal Press and adds to the discussion a new angle on building material, advocating use of granite which is produced in the St. Cloud district.

We quote the argument and conclusions as follows:

The St. Paul Pioneer Press is striving to overturn the decision of the new office building commission in selecting a site that will give the people of the state the best service for the least money. The Pioneer Press is inflicted with an imaginary artistic urge.

Years ago it advocated the building the state capitol of the dirty Georgia marble, on the theory that marble could be more artistically carved than could Minnesota's own granite. The late Archbishop John Ireland in the building of the Cathedral demonstrated that the Pioneer Press idea was false, and that granite, of much more beauty and dignity and cleanliness, could be fashioned just as beautifully as the soft marble. The Pioneer Press would have the office building across from the Historical building. This new office building will be necessarily much larger than the Historical building, and it would be so out of proportion that it would destroy all symmetry and beauty.

This office building is strictly a business proposition. It should be located in easy access to the capitol, and it would be a mistake to spend a lot of money for a more expensive site.

St. Cloud is naturally interested as is the rest of the state in getting the best building possible for use, and for future economy in operation.

The majority of the commission is favorable to the largest possible use of granite. If the Pioneer Press site is selected it means much less granite and a poorer building.

The Pioneer Press was against Minnesota material when the capitol was built and it seems to be actuated by the same lack of state loyalty.

Archbishop Ireland set the people of St. Paul an example in state patriotism that should not be overlooked.

Later on it will be necessary to have a building for the supreme court. This could be made to harmonize with the Historical building, and that would give a much more pleasing effect of the state buildings.

Hon. R. W. Hitchcock, chairman of the commission, has issued a statement that gives the facts that will appeal to the people of all sections.

Minnesota Leads in Highway Development

AFTER traveling more than 3,000 miles in 13 states and one Canadian province on a trip from St. Paul to the Atlantic, Governor Theodore Christianson is convinced that Minnesota is one of the leading states in highway development.

The construction of wide, direct highways, eliminating of grades, and the abolition of grade crossings, were the three particulars which he believes account for the excellent roads in this state.

Although the governor expected to find almost a continual stretch of concrete highway on his trip, he was disappointed for he found long stretches of composition highway. This is not regarded as permanent in Minnesota, but he admitted that it affords an excellent surface for driving.

It is probable that Governor Christianson will make some recommendations to the state highway department regarding some of the construction ideas resulting from his trip.

The use of wide roadways near cities, constructed with two strips of concrete separated by a composition strip seems to him very satisfactory and more economical than all concrete construction. He observed that it also helps to keep the lines of traffic separated.

Enforcing the 18th Amendment Without Federal Aid

IN commenting upon the famous Wickersham letter, Governor Theodore Christianson believes that Minnesota would find it extremely difficult to enforce the eighteenth amendment without the aid of the federal government under present state laws.

The governor recently returned from the governors' conference in New York. He said that complete withdrawal of the national government from local enforcement was unthinkable.

"Here in Minnesota we are not equipped to enforce the law without federal aid. Few states are," he said. When asked what steps he would favor in case the idea became a national policy, he referred to his last message.

"I advocated giving members of the state bureau of criminal apprehension power to make investigations and arrests without awaiting the requests of local officers. We would have to have a stronger police power.

"We could not depend upon local police, sheriffs and county attorneys to do all the apprehending and all the prosecuting, if the enforcement of the dry law were put up to the states."

Rain Falls at Last

RAIN, but very little at that, has fallen at last in Brainerd territory, but too late to be of much benefit to crops. Conditions the past two weeks have been unfavorable.

Corn is fair, with the prospects none too good for a favorable yield. Winter wheat has not been threshed yet. Oats are in fair shape. About two-thirds of the small grain crop is out. Hay is very light.

We have seen pastures that were literally burned up by the heat. The south half of the county appears to have fared better, as more rain was received. Last week, for instance, a rain extended from Minneapolis to Fort Ripley, but Brainerd and to the north never received a single drop.

Today's rain at Brainerd amounted to but a few hundredths of an inch, possible 3 hundredths. At Crow Wing and farther south the rain had been so heavy that water stood in pools about the roadways.

Saving miles of walking

Can you imagine what shopping would be if there were no advertisements?

Suppose your list of needs included a morning dress, a pair of tan pumps, a set of those little silver salt and pepper shakers, some bath towels and a new awning for the porch. You would want each article, of course, in a particular color or shape or style; each at a price within a certain range. How would you go about finding them, with no advertisements, to rely on?

Probably you would start at the "likely" stores and keep on and on, tramping up and down aisles, questioning sales people and floorwalkers, till your nerves were frazzled and your feet were sore.

Instead, you can sit down with the paper at home and find out in a few minutes just what stores are featuring the things you need. You know they will be dependable goods, at fair prices. With the advertisements as a guide you can plan your route, get your shopping done early, and have time for a movie or a chat with your friends.

Women who stay young use the advertisements to save steps.

CLARIFYING THE HEAVYWEIGHT SITUATION IN AMERICA

SHARKEY TO FIGHT SCHMELING IN SEPTEMBER

BOUT SPONSORED BY MADISON SQUARE GARDEN TO DECIDE ON TUNNEY'S SUCCESSOR

HEENEY MAY BE PROVIDED AS OPPONENT FOR SCHMELING AT EBBETS FIELD

By FRANK GETTY (United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Aug. 5.—(U.P.)—Since fight fans of the United States are anxious to have the heavyweight situation clarified, the following facts are set forth:

Jack Sharkey of Boston and Max Schmeling of Germany will meet in September under the auspices of Madison Square Garden in a bout to decide who shall be named as Gene Tunney's successor. The fight will take place either in New York city or Detroit.

The New York State athletic commission will be asked today to approve Tom Heenev, Tunney's last opponent, as a suitable opponent for Schmeling at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, N. Y., September 4.

If the commission agrees, and Schmeling defeats the New Zealander, the German will box Sharkey at Yankee stadium on September 26.

William Muldoon, dean of the New York commission, is on record as ready to insist upon Tommy Loughran present light heavyweight champion, as Schmeling's next opponent provided the present arrangements to avoid Phil Scott, British heavyweight, are carried through.

In case Muldoon persuades the commission to substitute Loughran for Scott, whom Schmeling refuses to meet, the German's handlers will decline the match.

If the New York commissioners insist that Max must box Scott or Loughran for Humbert J. Fugazy before meeting Sharkey there is no chance of the bout to decide the heavyweight title being held in New York City. Schmeling's handlers know that Loughran would "make Max look bad." They have the same feeling about Phil Scott.

W. F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, is anxious to have Schmeling meet Sharkey in this city, but is prepared to stage the affair in Detroit if satisfactory arrangements cannot be made here.

If the New York commission declines to approve Heenev as Schmeling's opponent—Muldoon and James Farley, the board's chairman are on record to that effect—the Sharkey-Schmeling engagement will be driven automatically to Detroit.

LOCALS COLLECT 14 HITS, PEQUOT MAN HITS HOMER

RICHMOND TOUCHED FOR EIGHT SCATTERED HITS; LOCALS MAKE FOUR ERRORS

WIN AT PINE RIVER NEXT SUNDAY WILL CATCH PLACE FOR N. P. IN PLAYOFF

The Brainerd Northern Pacific team handed out a 13 to 5 trouncing to the Pequot club in the Northwoods League yesterday afternoon at Pequot in a game that furnished few thrills because of the uneven strength of the teams.

Brainerd collected 14 hits with Peterson having a perfect day at the bat with a triple, double and a single in three trips. Hanson collected two doubles in five trips.

Richmond pitched fine baseball. His opponent, Gunderson, was hit hard throughout the game. Four errors were chalked against the locals.

The Railroaders must win their game with Pine River next Sunday at Pine River to clinch a place in the play-off for the Northwoods League playoff. "Shorty" Uddenberg will return to the ranks from Paradise this week.

Indianapolis won the first game of a double header 9 to 4, only to allow Louisville to clinch the second game, 3 to 1.

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero—Big Ed Norris of the Boston Red Sox, who turned in one of the best pitching performances of the season, a two-hit game against the Chicago White Sox. Score, 8-0.

Although having difficulty in locating the plate, Jackie May of the Cincinnati Reds found a way to tame the heavy-hitting Phillies Sunday, holding them to five scattered hits and beating them, 7 to 1.

The New York Yankees, pursuing the Athletics, who were idle, won the first game of a double header from the Cleveland Indians, 12 to 0, but lost the night cap, 14 to 6.

The Chicago Cubs maintained a winning pace, coming from behind once more to beat the Brooklyn Robins, 6 to 4, Grimm's single with the bases filled proving the decisive punch. Twice on Sunday the Detroit Tigers came from behind to snatch both ends of a double bill from the Washington Senators. The scores were 10 to 5 and 13 to 11.

ASSOCIATION TABS

Weak defense lost Kansas City the final game of the series to Milwaukee, 4 to 8. Kansas City took an early lead but four runs in one inning put the Brewers on the offensive.

Toledo's timely hitting and good pitching defeated Columbus 5 to 0 and 8 to 3. Wingard held the Senators to three hits in the first game.

After a fist fight between Chapman of St. Paul and Buckeye of Minneapolis, the Kels defeated the Saints 6 to 4 in the tenth inning of play. A home run by High decided the game which was witnessed by 10,000 fans.

The Iron Man of the Diamond

Joe Sewell, Cleveland veteran, earned the title of "The Iron Man of Baseball" when a recent double-header brought his total of consecutive games played up to 1,036. No other big leaguer even approaches this mark. Everett Scott still holds the record with 1,307 consecutive games, but his string has been broken and with a little luck Sewell should reach this mark early in June, 1931.

DARK LIGHTNING

EARLY THIS SUMMER EDWARDS DID THE '880' IN 1:52 1/2, BREAKING THE 14-YEAR-OLD RECORD OF TED MEREDITH!

TOLAN, 1929 KINGPIN AT BOTH SPRINTS, HAS BEATEN SIMPSON AND BRACEY AND HAS BETTERED 9 3/4 FOR THE CENTURY SEVERAL TIMES—UNOFFICIALLY!

SHADES of Howard Drew and John Paul Jones (not the admiral!) And shades, indeed! Eddie Tolan, of the University of Michigan is the national A. A. U. 100 and 220 yard sprint champion; while Phil Edwards of New York University is the national 880-yard run titlist. Well may Drew, and the actual ghost of the late Jones of Penn., and thousands of others look with wonder at the track achievements of Tolan and Edwards.

Eddie Tolan, a bespectacled negro, is a decided novelty among great sprinters because of his physique which is not at all like that of the typical sprinter. The Michigan boy is stocky and muscled like a wrestler. He does not seem to be "built for speed," yet he did the 100 at Denver recently in 10 seconds against an 18-mile-an-hour wind, defeating the phenomenal Claude Bracey, Frank Wykoff and Russell Sweet.

The opposing breeze was of 18-miles-an-hour velocity when Tolan tore through it to capture that 270 at Denver in 21.9-10-seconds.

"Guess I'm so short the wind went right over me," remarked the modest Tolan after his Denver triumphs.

Just before Bracey and George Simpson stirred the athletic world a few months ago, Tolan had beaten them in a 100-yard dash, so Eddie was not as surprised as most others when he won in the A. A. U. national meet.

The rather squat Tolan is no gazelle in motion. This "inverted trapezoid," as "Dartmouth Eddie" Dooley described him, lacks grace. But how that muscular little gorilla-man can tear over the cinders and come from behind with a final burst of speed!

When it comes to "the poetry of motion," Tolan may be a penny-a-liner, but Phil Edwards is a study in classic rhythm—an ebon Mercury indeed!

At the intercollegiate in Philadelphia on June 1, Edwards made the third fastest 880-yard ever achieved outdoors. His 1:52-2-10 equalled Ted Meredith's American record for that distance made in 1916 and broke the latter's intercollegiate mark of 1:53. The N. Y.

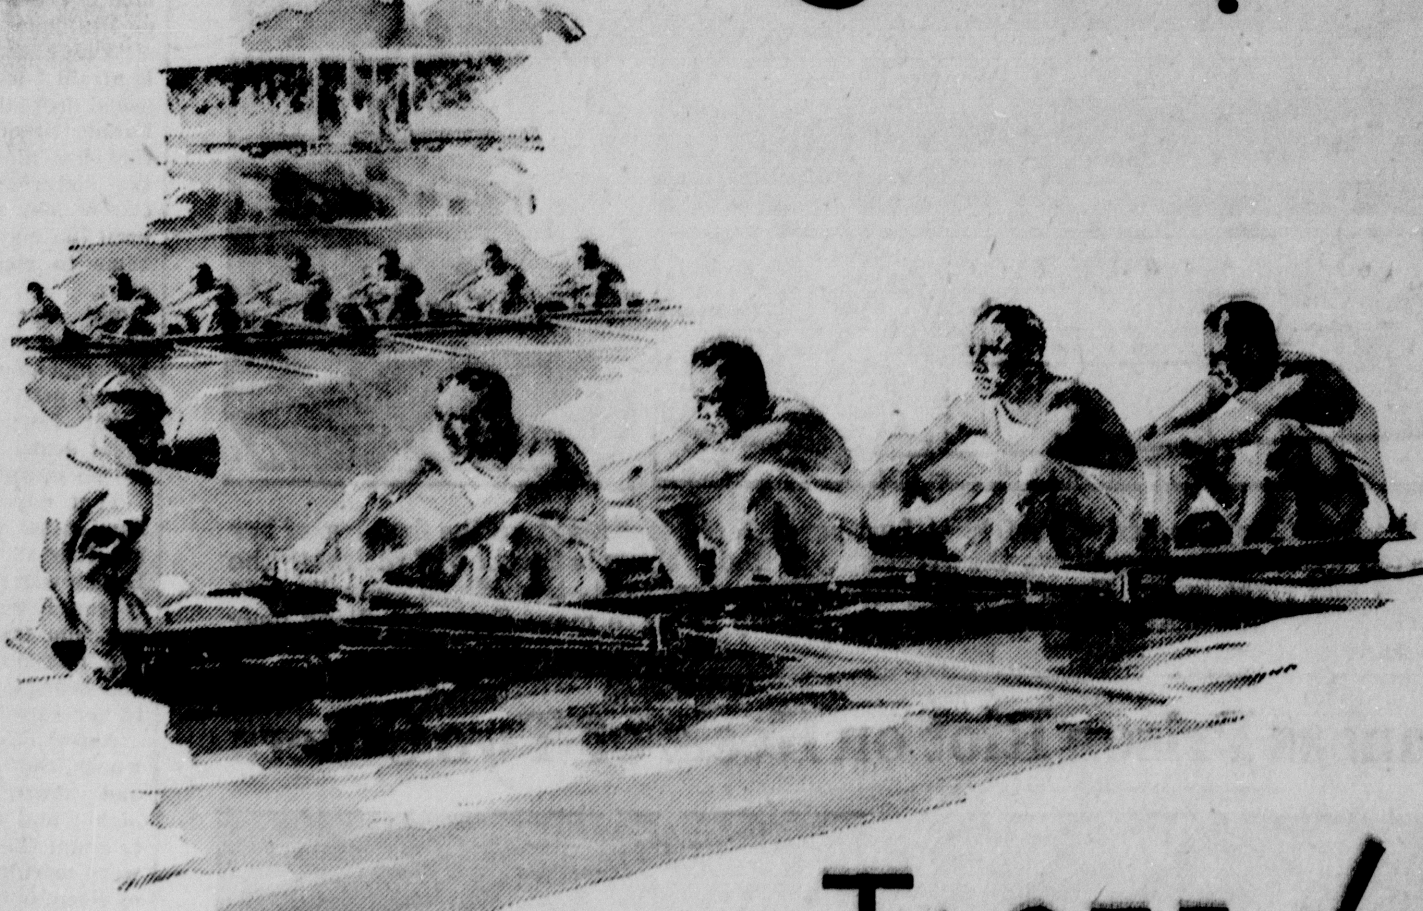

U. star also won the A. A. U. national 880-yard championship at Denver early in July.

Quarter and Half Miler Edwards is a top-speed starter. He tries to burn up the opposition in the first part of the race. When he made that 880 record, he was about twenty-five yards ahead of the second runner at the 600-yard point. At the finish, 280 yards further on, his lead had been cut to fifteen yards. On the last lap, the fleet Phil showed manifest fatigue.

Dr. Otto Pelzer of Germany holds the world's record of 1:51-6-10 for the 880 made in 1926. Phil Edwards will try to break that during the year. All he must do to equal it is to better his own record by 3-5 seconds. But what a mountainous obstacle that mere fraction of a second really is!

Tracks fans everywhere will be watching the efforts of Tolan and Edwards—"dark lightning," indeed—to further "fifth" the records for the 100 and 880 respectively. Let Eddie and Phil flash their lightning' stuff!

...at the finish it's SPURT!

...in a cigarette it's TASTE!

CALL A SPADE a spade... a cigarette is only as good as its taste.

Which makes Chesterfield mighty good! No magic about it... just good tobaccos, perfectly blended and cross-blended, the standard Chesterfield method. Finer aroma, more pleasing flavor, because that's the one thing we work for:

1929 TAX LEVY FOR COUNTY, $281,500

Levy Represents a Reduction Over 1928 Levy of $15,000 or 1.15 Mills

GAS TAX INSTRUMENTAL

County to be Free From All Bonded Indebtedness on July 1, 1930

The 1929 tax levy for Crow Wing county was fixed by the County Commissioners at $281,500 Saturday, made up as follows:

Sanitorium fund	$ 12,500
Sinking fund	25,000
Bond interest fund	20,000
Poor fund	34,000
County revenue fund	90,000
Road and bridge fund	100,000
Total	$281,500

The above levy represents a reduction over the 1928 levy of $15,000 which will have the effect of reducing the county mill rate over 1.15 mills.

The levy for the sanitorium, sinking and county revenue funds is the same amount as set for 1928 but in order to put the bond interest and poor funds on a cash basis, the county commissioners found it necessary to increase the levy in those funds, $6,000 and $4,000 respectively.

The levy for road and bridge purposes last year was $125,000 but the anticipated revenues from the gas tax makes it possible to reduce the levy in that fund $25,000 this year yet allowing the same amount as last year for new road work and general maintenance.

The sinking fund levy of $25,000 will make it possible to mature the last of the county bonded indebtedness and on July 1, 1930 the last of the railroad bond issue sold in 1892 to aid in the construction of the Brainerd and Northern Minnesota railway, now a part of the M. and N., will be paid in full. On July 1, 1930 the county will be free from all bonded indebtedness.

The taxable valuation of the county exclusive of moneys and credits is approximately $13,000,000 and on that basis a reduction of $15,000 in the levy would mean a reduction of approximately 1.15 mills.

Tribute to Love

Love is the crowning grace of humanity, the holiest right of the soul, the golden link which binds us to duty and truth, the redeeming principle that chiefly reconciles the heart to life, and is prophetic of eternal good.—Petrarch.

Use for Egg-Timer

A Belfast (Maine) woman has discovered another use for an egg timer, one built on the lines of an hour glass. When she puts in a long distance call which she wishes to hold to three minutes and no more, she sets the egg timer in front of her and it is a sure indicator of the fleeting time.

Taken From the Indian

The word "succotash" is Indian in origin. It is a corruption of a Narragansett name for an ear of corn as distinguished from corn cracked or broken by pounding. Roger Williams used the word in this wise. By 1778 it had the meaning of corn mixed with beans and perhaps bears' flesh. Now succotash is a mixture of corn with lima beans or string beans.

"Plane Sailing"

An easy task is "plane sailing," a phrase which has been corrupted from the navigational "plane sailing," the simplest sort of course plotting, where the surface of the globe is considered flat. It can be used only in coastwise navigation, when many landmarks may be easily referred to as a check on the calculations.

Vesper, of St. Louis, noted Holstein breeder, will be one of many outstanding animals shown at the Northwest Livestock Show, a feature of the Minnesota State Fair, Aug. 31 to Sept. 7.

Never in the history of the livestock industry have cattle, horses, sheep, and swine of such quality been entered in any show held in the Northwest. Breeders from all parts of the country are planning to attend it.

ARRIVES SAFELY AT LAKEHURST

The Graf Zeppelin arrived safely at Lakehurst, N. J., last night on the first leg of her projected world tour. Top shows the great ship in flight, below is the map of the route she followed and right is Dr. Hugo Eckener, her commander. This trip of the Zeppelin was remarkable in the respect that she is the only airship to make more than one flight over the ocean.

Kansas Prison Riot on Heels of Two Others

The third in a series of prison riots occurred at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, an air view of which is shown here, where one prisoner was killed and several injured in a riot which broke out while the inmates were at their noon meal. Evidently, food and too much discipline were the causes and, when the convicts sat down to a meal of Spanish rice for the "thousandth time," rebellion stirred within them and first one complained, then another, until a general riot began, with dynamite explosions which rapidly turned into an inferno. After several hours' battle with the mutineers prison officers finally cornered them in one cell-block and compelled them to surrender.

The Haunted Room

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"GOOD night, my dear," said Miss Carow with a final glance about the large dim room with its fine old fourposter bed and other mahogany furniture. "Ah, don't open the east window, Esther . . . the shutters are fastened securely. Open the south window, it looks out on the garden." Esther looked over her shoulder. "Oh, Aunt Fannie, I would like to open both windows!"

"I would rather you did not, Esther . . . the shutters are solid wood and cannot be opened."

"Very well, auntie, but I have been just longing to go to bed with the sound of little waves lulling me to sleep."

"I know, my dear—perhaps you can hear the waves in the inlet from the garden window." In her own bedroom the smile died from Miss Carow's lips and she shook her head dubiously.

"I should have made Esther come in here with me; the wind is in the east tonight, and she might be frightened!" Softly she stole down the hall and tapped on Esther's door. Esther was leaning from the open window, as if bathing in the fragrance of the moonlit garden.

She turned quickly at Miss Carow's light touch.

"Auntie, it is glorious!"

"The scent of roses is always delicious at night," sighed Miss Carow, who looked a dead romance in her warm heart. "I came back to tell you not to be frightened in the night—come to my room if you cannot sleep."

"Not sleep? I shall sleep like a baby on that inviting bed," laughed Esther, and when the door closed she put out the light and prepared for bed.

The next morning she met Ida Graham, a distant cousin. "Sleeping in the east room? The haunted room, Esther?"

"Of course Aunt Esther wouldn't tell you, but no one wants to sleep there."

"Nonsense," laughed Esther. "I shall love it all the more."

But at night it was different. Alone in her room she regarded the closely shuttered east window with expectant eyes. A last glance into the garden revealed it to be a mysterious place of shadowy forms and scented darkness.

"Br-r-r-r!" shivered Esther, as she snuggled under a blanket. When she awoke, a clock somewhere was striking two, and on the blurred murmur of the last stroke, came the sound of a hollow groan.

Esther sat upright in bed, again she heard the groan as of some one in agony and immediately afterward she heard a sound somewhere close at hand, a movement and a little thump. Then silence. Then the groan repeated again and again. It seemed to come from the corner near the east window.

"That is the reason they keep it closed tightly," shuddered Esther, and just then some one rapped softly on her door.

"Aunt Fannie," thought Esther. "She is afraid I have heard it." Aloud, she asked drowsily "What is it?" and Aunt Fannie tiptoed quietly away, assured that her niece was sleeping through the disturbance of the night. Miss Carow had never believed in ghosts until the mystery of the haunted room came to confound all her past theories.

The next day Esther said nothing of the strange sounds she had heard, although one of the paying guests, a young artist who was painting the lovely Long Island shore, talked a great deal about a sleepless night due to the moaning of the wind.

That day Esther accompanied Pelham on his tramp through the woods, but they did not talk about ghosts. Esther was not sure whether she really cared for John Pelham; she had met him last year for the first time and this renewal of their friendship had brought a most disturbing flutter to her carefree heart.

A few days after this tramp in the woods, the wind came out of the east and howled around the house all night; and the restless "ghost" came to haunt the east room once more. Toward morning Esther, weary from loss of sleep, putting on dressing gown and slippers, skipped over the window-sill and walked around the corner of the house to study the closely shuttered east window. A slight sound warned her to look up and she saw John Pelham sitting on the slope of the roof, lightly attired.

"Oh, what is it?" he asked, sawing away at the long tree limb that sprawled across the roof. "The (saw) confounded (saw) thing (more sawing) kept me awake, I investigated and here it is!"

"How clever!" admired Esther, and she was still admiring when Miss Carow came, scandalized, and saw the ghost really laid. That night while they sat around the fire, where the "ghost" burned brightly, Aunt Fannie announced her niece's engagement to the young painter.

And one of Pelham's most famous paintings is one that he painted of the inlet, and golden shore from his seat in the open east window of the ghost room.

The Skyscraper Murder

by SAMUEL SPEWACK

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

PHILLIP EDISON is host at a night-club party to his just recently-divorced wife and Oliver Sewell, sportsman and Don Juan. Edison presumes that Sewell and the divorcee are to be married. When the party breaks up, Edison goes to Sewell's home and, while he is waiting his return, is informed Sewell has been found dead. Inspector Marx begins a police investigation. He questions Sewell's Russian valet. The elevator operator is also questioned. He did not see Sewell return. A young medical examiner, with a taste for detective work, assists Marx. Their search of the apartment reveals complete wardrobes for women in different colors. In a safe-deposit box they find a scrap of paper bearing the inscription, "Paid in Full." The following day a Major Preston, who has been a sporting associate of Sewell's, is interrogated. Then Sewell's widow visits the apartment. She intimates that Preston might know something. As the investigators are standing, after Mrs. Sewell's departure, looking at a mirror door, it opens, and Mrs. Edison appears. She relates a story which the police do not believe. After she leaves, her lawyer threatens Marx with political reprisals if the woman is molested. Then Edison visits the apartment. As he goes out a shot is heard. The Russian butler is found dead and Edison is arrested. Mary Pennell, whose clothes are found in the apartment, is questioned. She identifies the "Paid in Full" note as in her uncle's, the Major's handwriting. A diary belonging to the dead butler is found. It relates a story of the famous Shah diamond which came into his hands in Russia while Sewell was there. Sewell gets possession of the diamond and takes it and the Countess Kurassova to America. The butler follows and enters Sewell's employ. He unearths evidence of Sewell's relations with the Countess. Also the actions of the many visitors Sewell entertained. Marx and the doctor learn that another man occupied the apartment with Sewell.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIX. A SURPRISE.

LEFT alone, Marx proceeded to make himself comfortable. That is, he despatched the elevator boy for several ham sandwiches, a thermos bottle of coffee and a dozen cigars. Thus fortified, he spent two hours exploring the apartment. When he was satisfied that his search would yield him nothing, he slumped into a comfortable chair in the room of mirrors and smoked placidly. Marx could wait. He began to doze. When he awoke it was evening, and the lights of the city twinkled through the windows. Marx shook himself, took a drink of the coffee and lit a fresh cigar. It seemed to him that his vigilance would gain him nothing. But still he sat, listening intently. He was following a hunch, and he was determined to follow it to the end.

He rose and once more began wandering through the apartment, and began cursing himself for a fool. It seemed a silly errand. Then suddenly he stopped. It had grown quite dark, and he had not switched on the lights. Not far from him he could hear soft footsteps, coming nearer and nearer. Marx stood still, and held his breath. Still the footsteps pattered closer, and Marx could distinguish the vague, shadowy figure of a woman. Suddenly he ran to the light switch, and the room was flooded, so that he blinked.

He heard a scream. Before him stood Mary Pennell. Her face was white, and her eyes wide with fright. She stared at him and could not speak.

"Well!" said Marx, and he was fully as dumfounded as the girl. The girl did not reply.

"Sit down!" invited Marx, pointing to a chair. "I didn't know I was to have a visitor."

"I—I—" stammered the girl. "I didn't know myself."

"What are you doing here?" "I—I don't know."

"Just looking around?"

The girl swallowed. "Yes," she said hastily. "Like the furniture?"

"Yes."

"Want to buy it?" "Yes—yes."

"Well, I can't sell it to you, you know."

"No. No."

"You weren't going to steal it, were you?"

"Oh, no!" she protested. "I—I wouldn't steal it."

"That's good."

Marx looked at her grimly. "Then what did you come here for?"

"I—I don't know."

"Listen!" Marx snapped at her. "You want to go to jail?"

The girl rose, frightened. "Oh, you wouldn't do that, would you? I—I haven't done anything."

"Haven't you thought? You know you're interfering with justice when you come here? What are you up to?"

door. There must have been! I swear there was!"

The girl tried to retrace her steps, but finally sat down, bewildered. She put a white hand to her head.

"I don't know," she moaned. "I don't know."

"All right, girlie," Marx proclaimed, "now sit down and tell me about it."

"There's nothing to tell," she protested. "I received the letter this morning."

"How?"

"Through the mails. I opened it and read it. I couldn't understand it, but I had to go through with it."

"Did you show it to Edison?"
